Section B - Excess Contribution Information

Note: In general, the aggregate maximum annual contribution limit on behalf of a Student is $2,000, permissible until the Student turns age 18 (exceptions may apply for Students with special needs). Other contribution limit exceptions may apply, such as for certain high-income contributors, so please consult with your tax advisor. Amounts in excess of the amount allowed by law (even if deposited in different Coverdell Education Savings Accounts) are considered "excess contributions." Excess contributions (and the earnings on such excess contributions) are subject to an excise tax of 6%. To avoid the excise tax, the excess contributions (and the earnings on such excess contributions) must be withdrawn from the account by the May 31st of the year following the year to which the contribution relates. Generally, excess contributions (and earnings) withdrawn by the May 31st of the following year are not subject to the 10% penalty tax on non-qualified distributions and only the earnings will be taxable to the Student. You are responsible for determining the earnings on any excess contributions. (Non-qualified distributions are generally taxable distributions in excess of qualified education expenses. Non-qualified distributions may be subject to a 10% penalty tax). Please see IRS Publication 970 and Instructions to IRS Form 5329 for additional detail.

Distribute the following contribution:
